

CHAPTER - 2

THE HARAPPAN CIVILIZATION

Salient Features

1. Urban Civilisation
2. Bronze Age Civilisation (Flourished during Circa 2500-2000 B.C.)
3. The largest Civilisation in geographical area of the ancient world.
4. Town-planning and well developed drainage system.
5. Gridiron layout and fortification.

Origin

1. Origin lies in various indigenous Pre-Harappan cultures.
2. Indus Civilisation was culmination of a long series of cultural evolution.
3. Emerged out of the farming communities of Sind and Baluchistan, Haryana, Gujarat and Rajasthan.
4. Continuous cultural evolution from 6000 BC onwards in North West India which finally culminated in the rise of Indus Civilisation.

Phases of Development

1. Archaeological excavation & research have revealed phases of cultural development bursting up in the emergence of a full-fledged civilization at Kalibangan, Banawali and Rakhigarhi.
2. Began in Baluchistan & Sind and then extended into the plains.
3. These phases are Pre-Harappan, Early Harappan, Mature Harappan and Late Harappan
4. Extent of Harappa:- From Indus in North West (J & K) to 1600 km Daimabad (Maharashtra) in East, Alamgirpur (U.P.) to 1100 km Sutkagedor (Baluchistan). Total Area was 12,99,600 Sq. km.
5. These phases of cultural evolution are represented by Mehargarh, Amri, Kalibangan and Lothal respectively.

Different Phases and Transformation

- Pre-Harappan - Mehargarh - nomadic herders to settled agriculture

- Early Harappan - Amri - growth of large villages and towns
- Mature Harappan - Kalibangan - rise of great cities
- Late Harappan - Lothal mature as well as declining phase.

Town planning

Facts on Town Planning

1. Features of Town Planning

- A great uniformity in town planning, the fundamental lay-out of prominent urban settlements exhibits apparent similarities.
 - Based on 'Grid Pattern': streets and lanes cutting across one another at right angles dividing the city into a number of rectangular blocks. Main streets ran from north to south and were as wide as 30 feet. Streets and lanes were not paved.
2. Entire city complex was bifurcated into two distinct parts: the 'CITADEL' a fortified area which housed important civic and religious public buildings including granaries and residences of the ruling class and the 'LOWER TOWN', somewhat bigger in area and invariably located east to the former, meant for commoners. Evidence of fortification of the lower towns as well from a few urban centres like Surkotada and Kalibangan and evidence of division of the city into three parts instead of two from Dholavira.
 3. Use of standardized burnt bricks on massive scale in almost all types of constructions (an extraordinary feature of the contemporary civilizations), circular stones were used at Dholavira.
 4. Elaborate and planned underground drainage system. Houses were connected to the main drain equipped with manholes. Mostly made up of bricks with mud mortar. Use of gypsum and lime to make it watertight. Cesspits were there inside the houses to deposit solid waste. Bricks culverts meant for carrying rain and storm water have also been found. Bricks were made in ratio of 1 : 2 : 4. Size of Bricks - 7 C.m in Thick,

- 14 C.m Width

- 28 C.m Long.

5. Features of Houses

- Houses were plain and did not exhibit, any refinement and beauty. So far as the decorative value of the houses was concerned, they lacked it. In general they gave plain and un-decorative look.
- An average house comprised a courtyard and four to six rooms, a bedrooms, a kitchen, and a well presence of staircase gives indication of the second storey. Houses had side-entrances and windows were conspicuously absent. Except Lothal, where entrance were on main road and windows were found.
- Houses varied from a single-roomed tenements to houses with a number of rooms and having even a second storey. Floors were generally of beaten earth coated with cowdung. Fire-places were common in rooms. Walls were thick and square holes in them suggest of use of wooden beams. Every house was separated by another by a narrow space of 'no-man's land'. Staircases were usually wooden but some made up of burnt bricks have been found too. Roofs were flat. Doors were set in wooden frames and the average width of a door was one metre. Square and rectangular pillars of burnt bricks were used in larger rooms, round pillars were absent. Kitchen was small in size. A round oven meant for baking chappatis has been found.

Art and Craft
